THE STANWICH SCHOOL ANNOUNCES STUDENT “GREEN” CONTEST WINNERS

GREENWICH, CT—November 6, 2008—In an effort to support “go-green” efforts for student bussing and carpooling, The Stanwich School recently held a student art contest with winners being announced today.

Selected from a total of more than 330 submissions from the school’s Primary, Intermediate and Junior Houses, the overall winners include: Primary House winner, third-grader Caroline Baird of Old Greenwich; Intermediate House winner, fifth-grader Lucy Burnett of Greenwich; and Junior House winner, seventh-grader Nick Kiley of Greenwich.

Grade level winners include: Kindergarten winner Julian Trahanas of Riverside; first-grade winner Paula Yellis of Stamford; second-grade winner Elizabeth Friedberg of Old Greenwich; third-grade winner Matthew Miller of Stamford; fourth-grade winner Megan Yort of Old Greenwich; fifth-grade winner Alex Dunn of Greenwich; and sixth-grade winner Jenny Goggin of Riverside.

In the Zone contest winners Lucy Burnett, Caroline Baird and Nick Kiley with Headmistress, Pat Young.

“The contest was designed to support our students’ efforts to use carpooling and bussing,” said Headmistress Pat Young. Winners will receive a Stanwich t-shirt and tote bag, as well as have their art made into stickers. The latter will be used to help acknowledge students who make the effort to use either mode of transportation to and from school.

Approximately one-third of Stanwich students ride the bus to the main campus each day and many families are carpooling, with an average of 1.3 students per car entering the campus.

“I applaud the efforts of our students and their families to ride the bus and form car pools to get to school. Such a cooperative and environmentally friendly response is just another way we’re fulfilling our mission to make God’s world a better place,” added Young.
